A Classical Story.

I am going to tell you a classical story. Listen:

"The woman here was standing before the city of Troy."

"That seems a heavy beast," said Paris to Hector. "Now, what would you say was its weight?"

"Troy weight, of course," replied Hector.

"I didn't mean that, you good looking brute!" said the woman, with a wit of the tongue that turned her green with envy.

Her Revenge.

A lawyer asked a woman in the witness box her age, and she promptly replied:

"Old enough to have sold milk for you to drink when a baby, and I haven't got my money yet."

An Estimate and a Hope.

"You've heard her, you say?" remarked Mr. Dumbley. "Ah, she certainly has the gift of song."

"Well, I hope that's what it is," replied Miss Knox. "I should hate to think she paid anything for it."—Philadelphia Press.

Ingenious.

"Now," said Mrs. Goodell, "if you do a little work for me, I'll give you a good meat after awhile."

"Say, lady," replied Hungry Hawkes, "you'll get it cheaper if you give me a meat now."—Exchange.

If an Englishman wants to feel at home at once in the United States he must go to Virginia. I was spoiled everywhere, but nowhere more than in Virginia. They love England there with a special affection, are very proud of their English ancestry, and at an old Virginia country house such as we visited during the week at Richmond you might easily fancy yourself in an old park in Sussex or Wiltshire.
